

First Presbyterian Church of Palo Alto proudly presents

Family Fundamentals

What happens when parents believe that their own children represent the very element that will lead to the destruction of the human race? Armed with a digital camera, award-winning filmmaker Arthur Dong takes viewers into the private, and sometimes very public lives, of three conservative Christian families with gay and lesbian children.

- Official Selection, Sundance Film Festival 2002
- "[A] gripping documentary" - The Village Voice
- "Searing" - Seattle Times
- "More compelling than any effects-laden spectacle you're likely to see all summer" - L.A. Times

Special film guest:
Brett Mathews

The son of a Mormon bishop, Brett is one of three gay children interviewed in the film. He currently serves on the board of PFLAG Los Angeles.

Special guest:
Michael Adee
